BREAKING!

BLOCKHEAD TO REVOLUTIONISE LUGGED ELBOW

Even Plumbers scared of innovation can't say no to the New Blockhead Lugged Elbow

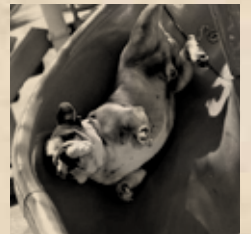

Plumbers are not known for taking onboard innovative ideas. "I grew up using this or doing that why would I change now. If it ain't broke don't fix it" 62 year old Barry said. But there has been a movement of Plumbers realising smarter not harder, and time is money. With this the Blockhead Lugged Elbow is creating waves in the industry. Noggins are a thing of the past with this nifty little Luggie that can be fixed from any angle, you're not limited to just screwing it through the back anymore. What's even better is it's priced at the same price as a traditional Lugged Elbow. Only the most stubborn Plumbers could say no to a time saving innovative product that doesn't cost you anymore. "I was against Press fittings when they first came in" said Craig from CLP Plumbing. "But now look at them they are mainstream and I wasted so much time avoiding them. That's not going to happen with the Blockhead that's for sure!"

LOCAL BUILDER GETS ANNOYED WHEN TRADE ONLY PLUMBING SUPPLIER REFUSES TO SELL TO HIM

"Discrimination" said Bob. "I have every right to buy what ever I like, they shouldn't be able to stop me! I'll just go buy it from Reece if you don't want my money!" This is a typical rant that Trade Only Suppliers across the nation hear all too often. It's ironic that Builders seem to be so against an only selling to Plumbers policy but are so against owner builder renovation projects. But hey why shouldn't Builders get to have their cake and eat it too. Rumour has it the cake shop is still chasing the builder for payment for that cake.

LOCAL ELECTRICIAN PUSHES INNOCENT BULLDOG OFF SLIDE

The Electrician has been accused of dragging the Bulldog to the slide and throwing him down. The event took place after the Bulldog dropped a dust pan and brush at the electricians feet. The accused claimed the dog who is owned by the Plumber on site was a hypocrit as "the dog doesnt clean up after himself, why should I!"

Luke's Editorial

At Plumbers Choice we love innovation. You could say innovation is built into our DNA. It's our delight in bringing new ideas to market that make the lives of plumbers easier or more productive. Not every product we have promoted has been a world beater. In fact, I am first to admit some we have supported have been duds. The fact that some innovations have a meteoric rise and some flop is part of the excitement of bringing innovations to market. I also love the fact that plumbers are always willing to consider a new concept. I think this is because Plumbers, by their nature, are entrepreneurial. Many plumbers run their own businesses and are always looking for ways to do their job faster or in a better way.

This month we are proud to be bringing to market the Blockhead Lugged Elbow. You can simply use the Blockhead as you have always used a lugged elbow, that is, fix it to a noggin in the traditional method. The benefit of the Blockhead is that it can be fixed in other ways, to studs and to carpenters noggins. This means it can reduce the number of noggins required. When you consider the huge number of lugged elbows used every day and the potential labour saving, you can see why we are excited about the Blockhead.

We believe the Blockhead will be available early next year in a PEX system for water and gas. If you are interested in receiving more information please talk to your rep or flick us an email sales@plumberschoice.com.au

TIP OF THE MONTH

We'll tip YOU when you tip US!

Every featured story receives a $200 Store Credit

When roughing in and there is piece of metal like a gang nail the pipe is going over you take the nail out of the PEX Clip and put it in backwards. You can then nail the clip in backwards which keeps the pipe off the metal.
